

Mentor/Mentee Dinner

October 18, 2018

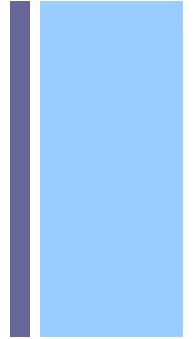

“A candle loses
nothing
by lighting
another candle.”

Erin Majors

Mentor

- A wise advisor
- A teacher or coach
- Mentorship: the developmental relationship between a more experienced mentor and a less experienced person referred to as a mentee or protégé.

Webster's Dictionary

+ It doesn't just happen...

Mentoring relationships require serious commitment from both the mentor and the mentee.

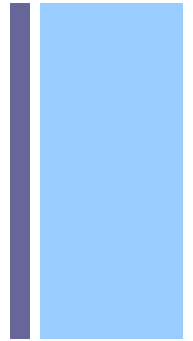

A man with short brown hair and a goatee, wearing a light-colored button-down shirt, is shown in profile from the chest up. He is holding a piece of white chalk in his right hand and is about to write on a dark grey chalkboard. The chalkboard is the background for the entire image.

“One can say,
‘Teach me what you know,’
but the better request is,
‘Teach me about what teaches you.’”

+ The Formula for a Successful Mentor/Mentee Relationship

- Start with self-assessment
- Be a keen observer
- Demonstrate commitment to your career
- Show that you are motivated and enthusiastic about your work
- Expect guidance, not rescue
- Provide encouragement, share your experience
- Get to know your mentor/mentee as an individual

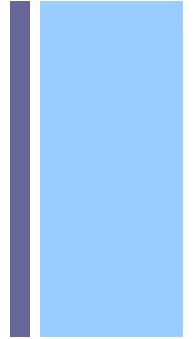

What Does the Mentee Get Out of It?

- A listening ear
- Valuable direction
- Gaps filled in
- Doors opened
- Different perspective

Leadership in Mentoring

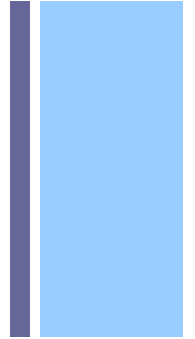

- Engage others to participate
- Play an active, involved role throughout
- Provide guidance and encouragement
- Seek feedback
- Model positive behavior
- Celebrate

Immerse, indulge... and emerge a brand new you!

We wish you a great year filled with networking, career building and long lasting meaningful relationships.
